WORKING SHEETS

Before you approve a redesign

A worksheet for separating evidence from preference

Rupesh Kumar

Choose the task under review

- [ ] Customer and situation
- [ ] Task they want to complete
- [ ] Where they enter the product

Record what happened

- [ ] Observed action or exact customer words
- [ ] Screen, step or message involved
- [ ] Source and date of the observation

Name the kind of problem

- [ ] Task difficulty: what could they not complete?

- [ ] Value confusion: what did they expect instead?

- [ ] Visual preference: whose preference is this?

Compare two possible changes

- [ ] Smallest change to the current experience

- [ ] Larger change being proposed

- [ ] What each option costs the team

Plan the next check

- [ ] Question the next test should answer

- [ ] Evidence that would favor one option

- [ ] Person responsible for the test

Keep the conclusion open to evidence

- [ ] What is still an assumption

- [ ] Other possible explanation to check

- [ ] Decision and review date